Let Nature Guide You

PROTELAN AG 11 (Potassium Undecylenoyl Hydrolyzed Wheat Protein), a natural derived mild and active molecule for performance personal care products.

The major benefits and applications are:

Dandruff regulation properties, substantive effect and texturing performance.

Helps to maintain overall skin balance.

Use in extremely mild anti-dandruff and conditioning products.

Improves foam formation, creaminess and volume.

PROTELAN AG 11 enhances the performance of anti-dandruff shampoos with the added advantages of extra mildness and lower toxicity potential than most traditional actives.

Facial care products

For this special on facial care products we have been able to assemble a particularly wide selection of formulations, which you can, if they are of interest to you, download from our web site at www.cossmma.com using the access codes for February shown on the Internet button on this page.

You will find 36 formulations, going from face cream and eye cream through after-shaves to colour cosmetics, put forward by 30 different ingredients suppliers. For example, how about a face cream with the intriguing name Eternal Life Code, proposed by Seppic? In terms of foundations there are the suggestions from LCW, who offer the Powdery Evanescent Foundation, Siltech LLC with their Fluid Foundation, and Dow Corning, who tempt us with the Glams Touch.

In March we will be focussing on cleansing products. In April it will be the turn of masks, face packs and exfoliants. All of the information published here has been carefully assembled, however neither the publishers nor the developers of these formulations can accept responsibility for their safety or accuracy.
