Literature References

Aug. 2012: KamReferences

1.
The Syneron Consumer Beauty Insights Survey with more than 1,000 women over age 25. UK: 2013

2.
Young AR, Orchard GE, Harrison GI, Klock J.The Detrimental Effects of Daily Sub-Erythemal Exposure on Human Skin In Vivo Can Be Prevented by a Daily-Care Broad-Spectrum Sunscreen. J Invest Dermatol 2007;127: 975–978.

3.
Autier, P., et al. (2001). "Quantity of sunscreen used by European students." British Journal of Dermatology 144(2): 288-291.

4.
Neale, R., et al. (2002). "Application patterns among participants randomized to daily sunscreen use in a skin cancer prevention trial." Arch Dermatol 138(10): 1319-1325.